It has also been our policy to limit new employment to those positions which are essential to the work of the Agency, and in fast to reduce the number of our employees wherever possible.

Ong.

Whenever a recency occurs anywhere in the expaniention, the position itself is reviewed for its essentiality. Our procedures in this regard are, I believe, in the best interest of administrative efficiency, and in accord with the desires of the Congress.

Although we are trying to hold the line on new employment measurement possible, employment opportunities of course do occur from time to time. You may have my assurance that publication has been given the most serious consideration, and that we will get in touch with him should any suitable openings develop in the future.
